

Testing Script

There are several features to test out for this application.

The first thing to do is to log in with a username.

Once you are on the main page, test the functionality by trying to add a new post. A new post should appear if you hit the send button with your message.

Next you want to see if you can delete your posts. Hit the delete button on a post to see if it actually disappears.

After that go to the Inner Group tab and test out the same functionality as before.

Go back to the Home tab and hit the save button on a few posts. Then go to the Saved Notes tab to see if they have appeared. Also test out if you can delete notes by hitting the delete button.

Go to the Stats tab and type in "Writing,Reading,Science,Math" in the text box. You should see the bar graph change as a reflection to see if it worked. Since I left this application open to everyone, hopefully the data isn't deleted which will cause things to fail. If the data is gone, then make several posts that contain the words "Writing", "Reading", "Science", and "Math". Repeat what I did in the initial sentence of this paragraph and that should fix things. Capitalization matters here.

Once you are done with all that, just see if you can log off and then you are done testing everything pretty much.